

Give to charities that focus their efforts on causes you care about. The causes we all care about are uniquely personal, based on our life experiences and views of the world. What makes you angry, sad, happy, passionate or fearful for the future? Those are strong indicators of issues and concerns you care about.

Things I Care About

Following are words or phrases that describe issue areas and concerns that you might care about as a donor. The listing is only for inspiration. You might never have donated time or money to these areas of interest before; this is simply to give you the chance to recognize what has meaning for you among things you could give to.

Put check marks next to those that have the most meaning for you. Then go through the list again and circle your top three.
